SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 12, 1862

The Vallandigham "Democratic Address"

Sometime ago the telegraph brought a notice that the Democrats in Congress had signed and published an address for the reorganization of the 'Democratic party.' The secession press of our State made much ado about this movement, and when the address came to hand, greedily seized and published it. They told the people that it was 'the Democratic Address'—But the late newspapers of the East demonstrate the fact that the address was got up to deceive and mislead the members of the Democratic party—that it in no sense embraced its views—that of the 13 Democrats and 5 Unionists in the Senate, and 42 Democrats and 26 Unionists in the House—only fourteen signed the address.

The New York Post (Rep.) says:

Nearly all the leading respectable Democrats in Congress have refused to sign the address. I use the word respectable in a political sense. Gentlemen like Mr. Odell of New York, Mr. English of Connecticut, Mr. Holman of Indiana, and others, scorn to attach their names to such a document. It is reported that Erastus Corning and Democrats of his stamp would not sign it, being too shrewd to be caught with such chaff.

The majority of Democratic papers which have come to hand, either take no notice of the address, or condemn it outright. The Albany Argus, the central organ of the New York Democracy, says of it:

"The address which we publish in our columns to-day, signed by fourteen members of Congress, will strike the Democracy of the Union with surprise, less on account of any position it presents, than by the absence of signatures.

There are 13 Democrats and 5 Unionists in the Senate, and 42 Democrats and 26 Unionists in the House. Senator Carlile and others, called Unionists, attended the Democratic consultation, and were, we understand, prepared to sign an address calling upon the Conservative electors to rally to the support of the Constitution.

We have never favored the setting up of Congressional platforms for party government. The Democracy of New York have always opposed this assumption. They have not found anything in the recent experience of such intervention to encourage them. The memory of the attempts of the Senatorial cabal which conspired against Douglas, to dictate a platform to the Charleston and Baltimore conventions, is yet too fresh. They prefer to let the Democracy be heard through national and State Conventions."

The Rochester Union (Dem.) says:

"The gentlemen who signed this address were elected to legislate for the country—not to frame creeds for a political party. They may entertain one set of views as to the duty of party men in this crisis, and the Democratic press may entertain another set of views on the same subject. The press does not claim the right to impose its views upon the Democratic or other members of Congress, and it will not blindly accept their views as its own."

The Chicago Post, whose editor is the biographer of STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS, thus disposes of it:

"The address purporting to be 'the address of the Democratic members of Congress,' but really signed only by Mr. Vallandigham and thirteen gentlemen who allowed their names to be used by that individual, is not favorably received by the democracy of the country. The majority of the papers take no notice of it all, very few publish it, and others openly reprobate it.

It is now well ascertained that Mr. Vallandigham prepared the address. That gentleman's past and present political record is not the most creditable, and we are not surprised at his effort to make himself and the democratic party identical. But we are surprised that he succeeded in getting any of our Illinois democrats into his questionable company."

The democratic organ of Illinois speaks to the purpose. While Vallandigham's record, to draw it very mildly, is "NOT THE MOST CREDITABLE," the antecedents of the men he has succeeded in drawing into his company, are scarcely better. Mr. Vallandigham, who prepared the address, in refusing to vote supplies to carry on the war, and in declaring that if Ohio sent troops to coerce the South into obedience to the Constitution they must first march over his dead body, may have been a little bolder and more out spoken in his treason; but we do not believe his sympathies for the rebels are any stronger or more decided than those of the Illinois democrats who are associated with him. Indeed, according to the Illinois (Quincy) Whig, Dick Richardson who refused to accept a Brigadier General's commission to fight the rebels, in order that he might remain in Congress to fight the Government, is as blatant as Vallandigham. That paper says even while Sumter was being bombarded and burned, he could froth and fume at home in public about the wickedness of a government which refused to cheerfully give up its forts and arsenals to armed traitors, robbers and murderers! That we should find in the same company Knapp and Robinson of Illinois, Law and Voorhees, of Indiana, Allen White, Noble, Pendleton and Norris of Ohio, Johnson and Ancona of Pennsylvania, and Shiel of Oregon, (a politician most signally repudiated at the late election in our State) is appropriate and proper. They are a nice set of men altogether, and if they have done nothing else, by issuing this address they have immortalized their infamy.

The object of these Vallandigham schemers is palpable. It is but carrying out the programme of his secret midnight caucus, and that was to aid the rebels by fighting the Government. The signers of this address have not a word of rebuke to utter against the gigantic treason which their party brethren of the South inaugurated. They propose nothing by way of punishment of those who are trying to destroy the Union. They carefully avoid saying anything which can be construed into a rebuke of their Secession friends, but devote columns to abuse and misrepresentation of the Administration. As we have heretofore said the machinations of these Democratic leaders indicate that they are conspiring with the rebel Captains to overthrow this Government if possible. Their talk and action mean rule or ruin, compromise with traitors in arms or organized opposition to the Government, peace on any terms or a 'fire in the rear' of Government.

Let them go on in their traitorous schemings. By whatever name the Vallandigham politicians may choose to dub themselves, they will fall equally still born. In despite of all they can do their labors will fail to commit the loyal masses of the Democracy to traitorous leaders like Vallandigham—'Fire in the rear' papers—such as the secession papers of Oregon, will welcome his leadership and try to corrupt their readers, that they may follow him. But it is evident that the attempt to organize the Democratic party upon the platform of condemnation of the war for the union and sympathy with the rebels limps badly at the start. It will be met everywhere, as it has been met in Oregon, by the condemnation of the loyal Democracy. It is well said by the Chicago Post, they will not follow such leaders as Vallandigham, Sheil & Co. They will be careful not to be caught in such 'questionable company.'

ROBERT J. BRECKINRIDGE ON REBELLION.—Rev. R. J. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, uncle of John C. Breckinridge, candidate of the Charleston Bolting Democracy for the Presidency, in 1860, and now a rebel and traitor, said in a late lecture:

"The very first lesson we draw from the actual state of the country is, that the war in which we are engaged ought to be prosecuted and prosecuted to the end, (tremendous applause) with the whole energy of the nation ought to be pursued to the last extremity.—(Repeated applause.) I may be called fanatical—perhaps I am; but I have often said, and I say it to you here, and God is my judge, I believe it would be better for this country, terrible as the calamity would be—I believe it would better for God's purposes upon earth—I believe it would be incomparably better for the human race, for all that is gained by us, that we should go back to Plymouth Rock and Jamestown—to the infancy of our country—than to let this atrocious and abominable attempt to subvert the Government succeed."

HE STILL LIVES.—From a short but very significant card published in yesterday's Times, we learn that Col. T'Vault is not drowned, nor likely to be soon. His body still perambulates this mundane sphere, while his "soul goes marching on." We don't wish him any particular harm, but hope he ne'er shall see the day in which he "or any other man" can occupy a prominent position in the Pacific Republic. Better that a mill stone were hanged about his neck and that he were drowned sure enough.

WHAT RIP RAPS MEAN.—Many persons have, since the war began, made inquiry as to the origin of the term, 'Rip Raps.' For the benefit of the uninformed, we give the following information. In engineering a "rip rap" is a foundation obtained by throwing stones together in a heap, without order, in deep water or on soft bottom. The fort or battery on the channel, between Fortress Monroe and Sewall's Point, is constructed on such artificial foundation, and is therefore styled the "Rip rap." The fortification was begun about twenty years ago. More blocks of granite were piled up to the height of twenty or thirty feet, and permitted to remain for several years for the purpose of settling the foundation. The blocks were taken down to within a few feet of the water line a year ago, and nothing more has been done to the fortification since.

THE NAVY OF THE UNITED STATES.—There are now as many seamen employed in the navy of the U. S. as there are in that of England. The personnel of the latter, excluding the 479 superintending officers of the dockyards, 10,850 established workmen, 1400 hired day 15,000 marines, 2301 factory laborers, and $100 boys, amounts to 31,000. In these figures coal heavers, firemen and stewards are included. It is estimated that we have some 33,000 persons attached to our vessels afloat.

DOUBLE HEADED LOGIC.—As some Abolitionists pretend to be Union men, the Secessionists style all Union men Abolitionists.—We may reason as well, and more logically, as all Secessionists and open traitors are opposed to the present Administration, therefore all opponents of the Administration are traitors, or sympathizers with traitors. The phrase "Abolitionist," as some now use it, is about "played out," and is about as effectual as the silly squalling of a senseless parrot.

[illegible] TO THE OREGONIAN.

6 DAYS FIGHTING.

Stonewall Jackson Killed.

Federal Loss 20,000

300,000 MEN CALLED FOR.

MARYSVILLE, July 7th.

WASHINGTON, [illegible].—A dispatch from McClellan to the War Department from Berkley [illegible], July [illegible], says he has succeeded in getting his army to that place on the bank of James river and has lost but one gun, which was abandoned; that the rear wagon train was within one mile of camp, only one wagon having been abandoned. We had a severe fight Tuesday, we beat the enemy badly, our men fighting even better than before; that the men were in good spirits, and that reinforcements had arrived from Washington.

Our total loss during the whole six days of [illegible] fighting till Monday night was about 12,000—7,000 of whom were lost in the battle of Friday on right wing. A second dispatch to the [illegible] Tribune estimates the total loss at 15,000.

FORTRESS MONROE, July 2d.—The steamer Daniel Webster from City Point with a number of wounded has arrived. A gentleman having charge of them informs me that yesterday was the sixth day of the battle. The most terrific fighting extended along the whole line. Our loss will reach from 15,000 to 20,000.

McClellan's headquarters are at Harding's Landing. To-day his lines extend five miles above towards Richmond. This move of the right wing was planned ten days ago and would have been carried out but for certain reasons which it is not proper to state.

Notwithstanding the fact that the enemy's force was greatly superior to ours in every action, they have been repulsed oftener than we have and their losses exceeds ours.

Our informant says McClellan and his staff think that the present position of the army is far more advantageous as a base of operations against Richmond than that hitherto occupied. The gunboats are now materially aid in carrying on the war. The enemy's force is stated by prisoners was 150,000 men, while our effective force did not exceed 95,000.

NEW YORK, July [illegible].—The Herald has detailed reports of the battle of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, from which it appears that the right wing of our army consisting of 20,000 men were attacked on Friday by a rebel force of not less than 60,000 men, and after a severe fight our troops crossed the Chickahominy in good order. On Saturday night and Sunday our whole force under Heintzleman, Keys and Sumner, fell back along the line of the railroad and the Williamsburg road and marched to James river. The rebels crossed the Chickahominy in great force on Sunday, reaching the railroad but made no pursuit remaining half an hour in possession of the ground occupied by our troops both sides of the Chickahominy, including the bridges and earthworks we had erected against their approach. All our stores were withdrawn in good order with much loss of course. There was tremendous fighting during the movements and heavy loss on both sides.

The Times correspondent states that McClelland established his headquarters Monday on Malvon Hill, one mile back of Turkey Island bend. At 2 o'clock Monday P. M. firing was heard in the direction of White Oak Swamp where Ayres was holding the rebels in check who were attempting to cross in immense force. The rebel artillery and cavalry fresh from Richmond then appeared on our left which Porter's and Keys commands went to resist the enemy. A most terrific fight ensued, it became evident that the overwhelming force of the rebels was gaining, when the gunboats opened with their 54 pounders on the enemy; the fight continued till dark.—About 10 o'clock in the evening the Prince de Joinville, Duke de Chartres and Count de Paris left headquarters; embarked on gunboat Jacob Bell, with official dispatches from McClellan to the government. When she left all was quiet along the river.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The World's correspondent from the battle field has arrived. He says McClellan's advance on Tuesday was within fifteen miles of Richmond. The enemy were terribly repulsed in Monday's battle, which was desperate in the extreme, and was repulsed at four different points, when they pressed Heintzelman hard but Sumner went to his relief and the enemy were finally repulsed with great slaughter. Heintzelman captured eight guns and a whole brigade 1400 strong, including their Colonel, Pendleton, of Louisiana, ex-Congressman Lamar and McGowan of South Carolina. All our siege guns have been safely removed to the river but one. Our transportation is all safe but 75 wagons.

In Monday's fight were Kearny, Hooker, Richardson and McCall. The reserve under McCall suffered severely. Gens. McCall and Reynolds are probably taken prisoners. The rebel general Stonewall Jackson is killed, all the prisoners corroborating this statement. In the action of Monday the gunboats Galena and Aroostook shelled the river road upon which the enemy made an attempt to advance. They retreat precipitately as soon as the shelling commenced.

Our troops are greatly exhausted but still in excellent spirits.

WASHINGTON, July 4.—The President has decided to call into service an additional force of 300,000 men, and so announced that the troops chiefly infantry, be immediately enrolled, so as to bring the iniquitous civil war to a speedy and successful termination.

BOSTON, July 2.—Gov. Andrews issued a call to the people of Massachusetts to fill up to the maximum number all regiments now in the field and for fifteen new volunteer regiments.

CORINTH, July 2.—Eight regiments of rebel cavalry, under Gen. Chalmers attacked Col. Sheridan's advance guard two miles north of Bellville at eight o'clock yesterday; a part of our force made a brilliant dash on the enemy's rear while second Iowa cavalry made a dash in front and on the rear alarming them so much that Gen. Chalmers was unable to hold them in check. At three o'clock the enemy commenced retreating. No report of the loss.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Letters from Fort Bent on 8th of June say the expedition under Lieut. Mullan [illegible] Oregon having been engaged [illegible] years in [illegible] and [illegible] from the Columbia river [illegible] the Missouri the [illegible] under M. Mullen [illegible] Walla Walla [illegible] [illegible] Coeur d'Alene Mountain Lake.

THE DAILY OREGONIAN [illegible] Book Store [illegible]

SMALL POX.—[illegible] several cases of this loathesome disease within our city limits at this time, and our city officials should see that the ordinance relative thereto is strictly complied with. A case of violation of this ordinance was brought before Recorder McC[illegible] yesterday, in which the Recorder fined a physician in the sum of $50 and costs for failure to give required timely notice of the existence of a case of this disease upon which he had been attending. We learn that an appeal is likely to be taken upon the constitutionality of the law and other technicalities. We are satisfied that the ordinance needs amending in several important respects, as it amounts at present to almost a dead letter.

PORTRAIT PAINTING.—We called the other evening on our old friend Mr W. H. Tappan['s] room over J. Wilson's store, First street, and were much pleased with the several beautiful portraits of ladies and gentlemen which he has been engaged in painting. They are indeed well executed, and display a great proficiency in the art of transferring likenesses to canvass. Call and see him.

The Julia arrived last night, but no later news was received from the mines. [illegible] connection with Express above the Dalles. About fifty passengers and considerable dust came down.

ROTTEN POTATOES.—A large lot of [illegible] California potatoes [illegible] out of a warehouse up town yesterday evening, having been dug and sacked before they were [illegible] and hence were badly bruised in shipping. Several hundred bushel will be a total loss.

CAMPAIGN PAPER.—We have seen a copy of a small campaign paper published at Vancouver, in aid of the Union cause. [illegible] spirited and spicy sheet, filled with many forcible facts and arguments in favor of supporting the Union candidates at the coming election in Clarke county. We believe that Clarke county will, at this election, prove herself loyal to the government and purify herself by rubbing out the foul stain with which the "Dixie Democrats" have heretofore blurred her record. We shall hail the result with much joy, as this county has long been held in bondage under the corrupt rule of political demagogues, and selfish tricksters.

AN INCIDENT OF THE BATTLE OF THE NEW ORLEANS FORTS.—Capt. Boggs, of the Varuna, tells a story of a brave boy who was on board his vessel during the bombardment of the forts on the Mississippi river. The lad, who answers to the name of Oscar, is but thirteen years of age, but he has an old head on his shoulders, and is alert and energetic. During the hottest of the fire he was busily engaged in passing ammunition to the gunners, and narrowly escaped death when one of the terrible broadsides of the Varuna's antagonist was poured in. Covered with dirt and begrimed with powder, he was met by Capt. Boggs, who asked where "he was going in such a hurry?" "To get a passing box, sir; the other one was smashed by a ball!" And throughout the fight, the brave lad held his place and did his duty.

When the Varuna went down Capt. Boggs [illegible] of his boy, and thought he was among the victims of the battle. But a few minutes afterwards he saw the lad gallantly swimming towards the wreck. Clambering on board of Capt. Boggs' boat, he threw his hand up to his forehead, giving the usual salute, and uttering only the words, "All right, sir! I report myself on board," passed cooly to his station. So young a lad so brave and cool in danger will make himself known as young goes over his head."

[illegible] PLEDGE.—The Sacramento Union [illegible] that the delegates to be elected to the [illegible] Convention in Tehama are required to [illegible] the following Union pledge:

[illegible] Do you acknowledge your allegiance to the National Government of the United States to be paramount to any State Government or party?

Second—Are you in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war for the suppression of rebellion, and will you give your aid and support to the National Administration in its efforts to preserve the Government intact, execute the laws and uphold the Constitution of the United States, no matter by what political party that Administration may have been put in power?

These propositions cover the whole ground. They ignore party and pledge loyal men alone to maintain the Union, the Constitution, the [illegible] and the Administration. It is the course which men loyal to the nation should pursue in all the counties. There should be a Union organization in every county in the State. In counties where no Union movement has been made, if there are such, the Union State Central Committee should see to it that steps are taken to hold meetings, elect delegates to a County Convention, that body to make the county nominations and appoint a Union County Central Committee. The Constitution [illegible]-Peace Dixie [illegible] will make a [illegible] effort to [illegible] legislature in [illegible] to secure the [illegible] and the Union cause ought not to be weakened at any point for lack of county organization.

Losing and Living

There is a whole sermon in [illegible] living in this fine poem, which, astray in the newspaper world, has lost all traces of paternity

For ever the sun is pouring his gold
On a hundred worlds that beg and borrow;
His warmth he squanders on summits cold,
His wealth on the homes of want and sorrow;
To withhold his largess of precious light
Is to bury himself in eternal night.
To give
Is to live.

The flower shines not for itself at all,
Its joy is the joy it freely diffuses;
Of beauty and balm it is prodigal,
And it lives in the life it sweetly loses.
No choice for the rose but glory or doom,
To exhale or smother, to wither or bloom.
To deny
Is to die.

The seas lend silvery rain to the land,
The land its sapphire streams to the ocean;
The heart sends blood to the brain of command,
The brain to the heart its lightning motion;
And ever and over we yield our breath,
Till the mirror is dry, and images death.
To live
Is to give.

He is dead, whose hand is not opened wide
To help the need of a human brother;
He doubles the life of his life-long ride
Who gives his fortunate place to another;
And a thousand million lives are his
Who carries the world in his sympathies.
To deny
Is to die.

Throw gold to the far dispersing wave,
And your ships sail home with treasure the surer;
Care not for comfort, all hardships brave,
And evening and age shall sup with pleasure;
Fling health to the sunshine, wind and rain,
And roses shall come to the cheek again.
To give
Is to live.

What is our life? Is it wealth and strength?
If we, for the Master's sake, will lose it,
We shall find it a hundred fold at length,
While they shall forever lose who refuse it;
And nations that save their union and peace
At the cost of right, their woe shall increase.
They save
A grave.

Call a Man.

John Jackson was a hard working man of twenty-three. Being the eldest child and an only son, he had always remained at home assisting his father on the farm. John was much respected by every one in the neighborhood, and many a bright eyed girl had secretly thought that she would like to be Mrs. Jackson. But John was no "ladies' man." The fact was he was bashful. He would rather hoe potatoes all day than undergo the ceremony of an introduction to a young lady.—Not that John disliked the dear creatures—far from it. We believe that he, in common with all bashful and well-meaning men, entertained the very highest respect and admiration for them. And this no doubt was the principal cause of his bashfulness. He felt that they were superior beings, and that he was unworthy to associate with them upon terms of equality. But we cannot stop to moralize.

Nancy Clark was the daughter of a very respectable farmer, whose land adjoined the Jackson farm. Nancy was a pretty, saucy little witch, and she liked John Jackson.—When they were children they attended the same school, and, as he was a few years her senior, he was usually her champion in the childish disputes that arose, and her companion in coming and going. At last John became so much of a young man as to be kept from school, and he had discontinued going for some years past. John discovered, too, that he was growing out of shape. His feet and legs appeared very awkward; he did not know what to do with his hands, his face pained him, and, taking all in all, he was inclined to think he was not more than half put together.

As novelists say, it was a lovely day in August. The sun was clear, serene and beautiful; the trees were loaded with golden fruit, and the birds twittered their songs of love in the branches. Earth—(there, we've slid down to earth once more, such lofty flights, they make our head dizzy.) We were prepared to say that "earth yielded a bountiful harvest of grass and clover, and honeysuckles, which the noble yeomanry of Chesterville had garnered within their storehouses," but, upon second thought, have concluded to word it thus; "The farmers of Chesterville had done harvesting."

John Jackson's sister had a quilting that afternoon. His father had gone to "Keith's Mills" to get some wheat ground, and left John to repair some tools, to be ready on the morrow to commence mowing the meadow grass. Suddenly it occurred to John that if he remained about the house that afternoon, he would be called in at tea time and required to do the honors of the table. To avoid this, he quietly shouldered his scythe and stole away to the meadow, half a mile distant, fully resolved that he would not leave there until it was so dark that he could not see to mow, so as to avoid seeing the girls.

The meadow was surrounded on all sides by a thick forest, which effectually shut out what little breeze there might chance to be stirring. The sun poured down its rays as though the little meadow was the focus point where the heat was concentrated. John mowed and sweat, and sweat and mowed, until he was obliged to sit down and cool off. Then it occurred to John that, if he took off his pants, he might be much more comfortable. There could be no impropriety in it, for he was entirely concealed from observation, and there was not the slightest reason to suppose that he could be seen by any person.

So John stripped off, and with no cover save his linen—commonly called a shirt—he resumed his work. He was just congratulating himself upon the good time he had made from meeting the girls, when he chanced to disturb a huge black snake, a genuine twister, with a white ring around its neck.

John was no coward, but he was mortally afraid of a snake. "Self preservation" was the first "passage" that flashed across his mind, and "legs take care of the body" was the next. Dropping his scythe and spinning around like a top, he was ready to strike a two-forty gait, when, at that moment the snake was near enough to hook his crooked teeth into John's shirt just above the hem.—With a tremendous spring he started off with the speed of a locomotive. His first jump took the snake clear from the ground, and as he stole a hasty glance over his shoulder, he was horrified to see the reptile securely fastened to the extremity of his garment, while the rapidity with which he rushed forward kept the serpent extended at an angle of 90 degrees from his body.

DR. L. J. CZAPKAY'S
Private Medical & Surgical Institute,
SACRAMENTO STREET, BELOW MONTGOMERY,
Opposite Pacific Mail Steamship Company's Office, San Francisco.

ESTABLISHED IN 1854 FOR THE PERMANENT cure of all Chronic and Private Diseases and the SUPPRESSION OF QUACKERY. Attending and Resident Physician, L. J. CZAPKAY, M. D., late in the Hungarian Revolutionary War, Chief Physician to the 20th Regiment of Honveds, Chief Surgeon to the Military Hospital of Pesth, Hungary, the late Lecturer on Diseases of the Genito-Urinary Organs and Diseases of Women and Children, and Honorary Member of the Philadelphia College of Medicine.

☞ Particular attention paid to the treatment of diseases peculiar to Women and Children.

Office Hours—from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M.

☞ Communications strictly confidential. Permanent cure guaranteed, or no pay. Consultations by letter or otherwise FREE.

Address, DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, San Francisco.

Of all diseases, the first great cause,
Springs from neglect of Nature's laws.

To the Afflicted:

Suffer not when a cure is guaranteed in all stages of secret diseases—Self Abuse, Nervous Debility, Syphilis in all its stages, Strictures, Gleet, Gravel, Diabetes, diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Mercurial Rheumatism, Scrofula, Pains in the Bones and Ankles, diseases of the Lungs, Throat, Nose and Eyes, Ulcers upon the Body or Limbs, Cancers, Dropsy, Epileptic Fits, St. Vitus Dance—and all diseases arising from a derangement of the sexual organs—such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory, Loss of Power, General Weakness, Dimness of Vision, with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes, Loss of Sight, Wakefulness, Dyspepsia, Liver Disease, Eruptions upon the Face, Pains in the Back and Head, Female Irregularities—and all improper discharges of both sexes. It matters not from what cause the disease originated, however long standing or obstinate the case, recovery is certain, and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment, even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians, and resisted all their means of cure. The medicines are pleasant, without odor, entirely vegetable, causing no sickness, and free from mercury or balsam. During fifteen years of practice in Europe, the Atlantic States and California, I have rescued from the jaws of death many thousands who, in the last stages of the above-mentioned diseases, had been given up to die by their physicians, which warrants me in promising to the afflicted, who may place themselves under my care, a speedy and permanent cure. Private diseases are the greatest enemies to health, as they are the first cause of consumption, scrofula and many other diseases, [illegible] to the human family. A permanent cure is scarcely ever effected—a majority of cases falling into the hands of incompetent persons, who not only fail to cure [illegible] but ruin the constitution, filling the system with mercury, which, with the disease, hastens the sufferer into a rapid consumption. [illegible]

Self abuse is [illegible] nothing [illegible] upon the system [illegible] It destroys the [illegible] wastes away the energies of life, causes mental derangement, prevents the proper development of the system, disqualifies for marriage, society, business and all earthly happiness, and leaves the sufferer wrecked in body and mind [illegible] With the fullest confidence I assure the unfortunate victims of self-abuse that a permanent and speedy cure can be effected [illegible] to robust vigor of health.

Irregularities and all diseases [illegible] treated on principles established by fifteen years of practice [illegible] Medicines with full directions sent to any part of the State, Oregon and Washington Territory, by patients communicating their symptoms by letter.

All business correspondence strictly confidential. Address DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, Medical Institute, Sacramento street, below Montgomery, opposite Pacific Mail Steamship Co.'s Office, San Francisco.

Remarkable Instance of Medical Relief

Below we publish the certificates of three of the sufferers from the pangs of disease who, having recovered their former health, and impelled by gratitude, make known their cases and remedies [illegible] are authenticated by a Notary Public. [illegible] and we [illegible] their perusal to the attention of all afflicted.

Certificate.—The undersigned [illegible] those who may be unfortunate enough to be similarly afflicted, where a permanent relief of their sufferings may be obtained, [illegible] to thus publicly express his sincere gratitude to Dr. L. J. Czapkay for the permanent recovery of his health. [illegible] symptoms [illegible] Borne down by the distressing [illegible] of an [illegible] mind unable to perform even the most trifling duties imposed upon the ordinary avocations of life, I sought the advice of many physicians [illegible] but alas after all weeks and in several instances months of their treatment I found to my mortification that instead of relief my symptoms became more alarming in their character, and being told by one that my disease being [illegible] medicine would be of little use [illegible] regarding my health [illegible] and with but a faint hope called upon Dr. Czapkay, who, after examining my case, prescribed [illegible] in almost instantly [illegible] and dizziness in my head. [illegible] result [illegible] myself immediately under his care, and by a strict [illegible] all [illegible] advice [illegible] collected the constant pains in my back [illegible] the weakness of my limbs [illegible] my whole body on the slightest alarm [illegible] in the morning and evil forebodings [illegible] and want of confidence in others, the incapability to study and want of resolution, the frightful exciting and at times pleasurable dreams at night, followed by involuntary discharges, have all disappeared, and in fact, in two months after having consulted the doctor I felt as if inspired by a new life—that life which but a short time ago I contemplated to end by my own hand. With this view to guard the unfortunate from falling into the snares of incompetent quacks, I deem it my duty to offer this testimony to the merit and skill of Dr. Czapkay, and recommend him to all who may stand in need of medical advice, being assured by my own experience that once under his care a radical and permanent cure will follow.

DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, San Francisco—Sir: I have used the last of your medicine and do not think I shall need any more, as I feel very well, except that I have not quite got my strength yet, but soon will with the [illegible] It is just three weeks, you may recollect, since I AM at your institute with my constitution, as I thought, entirely, and never thought you would be able to do [illegible] perfectly, but thought you might be able to do as [illegible] to ease the pain in my back and head, and [illegible] nerves so that I would not get excited and [illegible] anything. Now that you know what I expected, judge of my satisfaction at my complete recovery from these symptoms, and the removal of those sores and blotches from my skin and the ulcers from my throat, and the page of those emissions, which you said were the cause of my sickness. I can hardly tell you what is the greatest, my joy or my surprise, for except not [illegible] got my strength, I feel as well as any man can feel.

CERTIFICATE.—Prompted by an honest desire of my [illegible] I wish to lay before the public a case which [illegible] recommendation not only as an act of scientific skill, but that of humanity also. I was frequently, while in pursuit of my [illegible] thrown down to the ground without the slightest [illegible] and although insensible to the agonies, I yet [illegible] miseries of my life, and soon learned to look upon those who would render assistance or shelter me from [illegible] mies who sought to prolong the existence of my [illegible] While in this state, and having, previous to my [illegible] tasted the sweets of life, I once more was induced to try [illegible] seeking aid of a physician, and, by recommendation, called upon Dr. L. J. Czapkay. I told him of my case [illegible] and of my inability to reward him for his services; [illegible] of which, however, he at once undertook my case, and with the blessing of God, I was once more restored to [illegible] health. Unable to reward him for the boon which I enjoy at present, and yet conscious of my indebtedness, I owe it due to myself and all afflicted, to make the case [illegible] order that those in need of medical advice may find a physician in whom every confidence can be placed.
